Tips for Renters:

Restrictive Sanctions Restrictive sanctions are imposed for a minimum of 180 days and continue until the agent of the facility has agreed in writing to a policy of nondiscrimination:

"Currently, no facilities are off limits"

Rental Agreement Information

Before you give the landlord any money, ask for a written agreement. It may seem quick, easy, and best to simply talk to your landlord, give him some money and shake hands, but remember that things change and memories differ. A written and signed agreement puts your handshake in writing where you can refer to it and use it to protect your rights. When you rent, always retain a signed copy of the agreement.

Before you sign a lease or rental agreement make sure it includes the following information:

- * Names, addresses and phone numbers of both tenant and landlord
- * Location of the property you are going to rent
- * Amount of rent agreed upon and how, when, and where to pay
- * Persons responsible for each utility bill
- * A statement that notices are to be given in writing and where to send them
- * Name and phone numbers of whom to contact for repairs
- * Description of the premises before you rent them and a list of furnishings, if applicable
- * Reasons for any deposits needed and conditions under which they will be returned to you
- * Provide a 24-hour notice if landlord needs to enter the unit, except in an emergency
- * Military Clause

Before you sign the lease make sure the document does not include:

- * Outrageous late fees or other charges
- * Outrageous non-refundable deposits
- * Requirements for permission to have guests or for registering them
- * Permission for your landlord to keep your property if you fall behind with rent

Paying Rent

Do not pay your rent in cash without getting a receipt signed by your landlord or representative. You can prepare a receipt yourself, and then have the landlord sign it. If possible, do not pay your rent by money order unless you deliver it personally and get a receipt. If a money order gets lost in the mail, it can take a long time to trace. Payment of rent by check gives you automatic receipt when the landlord cashes it. Until cashed, you do not have any proof of payment. You can stop payment on the check if it gets lost in the mail.

Deposits

If any part of the deposit is not refundable, it must be indicated in writing. When you move out your landlord must return the refundable deposit or explain in writing why not. You must give the landlord a forwarding address in writing when you move out and keep a copy. You may need it if you need to go to small claims court.

Your landlord can keep part or all of your deposit IF:

- You owe rent
- You were responsible for damaging property
- Your lease or rental agreement stated that when you moved money could be deducted from the deposit for cleaning or other maintenance costs.
- You broke the lease and owe the landlord money

Additional Fees

Many apartment/rental units may require additional fees. These fees are in addition to monthly rent and may include but are not limited to: pet rent, pet deposits, media fees, parking fees, etc.

Notification

If your landlord keeps a part or all of your deposit, the landlord must provide you with an itemized list of any deductions made. The landlord must send this list and any remaining deposit money to you within 30 days of moving out or 15 days after receiving a forwarding address, whichever is later.

Renter Rights

You have the right to a safe and sanitary home. Cities and counties in Utah have enacted building and health codes. Buildings in which there are major violations of these codes are not safe or decent and should not be rented out. State law requires landlords to maintain rental units in compliance with local ordinances. You have the right to call a health or housing inspector if you think there is a code violation in the place you are renting. Inform the landlord, in writing of any necessary repairs as soon as they are needed. Be considerate of other tenants and neighbors. They have the same rights as you do. Do not cause damage to the property. Pay your rent in full and on time. Take reasonable care of the property you are renting. It is after all the landlord's property and you are paying for the use of it. When you move out of the property it must be in the same condition as it was when you moved in. Abide by all the terms in the lease or rental agreement.

More information on renter rights and responsibilities can be found at:

www.justiceforall.org

Renters Insurance

You should seriously consider purchasing renters' insurance whether you rent on or off base. The landlord's insurance will generally not cover your belongings. Renters' insurance will protect you against loss of your property by fire or theft. It also protects you against the liability if someone claims you injured another person or damaged that person's property. Renter's insurance is typically inexpensive, call your insurance company for more info.

*Renters Insurance is required by BMMH.
